TEAM ITALIA DESIGN

NEW MIAMI OFFICE AND DESIGNS

For most cultures the celebration of maturity and coming of age coincides with one's 21st birthday, and the same can be said of Team Italia Design. With three Riva new models unveiled in 2015, a new website and the opening of a new office in Miami, the studio has certainly established itself as a key player in the sector. The early months of 2015 brought the launch of two new Riva models—the 88' Florida and the 88' Domino Super—followed in short order by the new 76' Coupe. "We in Officina Italiana Design are genuinely proud of our achievements and the solutions we produced for these three models in collaboration with the Ferretti Group's engineers and designers," says Mauro Micheli, designer and co-founder of the Bergamo-based studio. "By that I mean, in particular, the elegant hull shape, the new standards of comfort attained and the use of light, as well as the color contrasts in both the interiors and exteriors. We always endeavor to design sophisticated, timeless craft in line with our concept of style and with what this historic brand represents: it is, after all, a yachting icon." Mauro Micheli has been collaborating with Riva since 1984. Through Officina Italiana Design, the studio he cofounded with Sergio Beretta, Micheli has been exclusively responsible for the design of the exterior lines and interiors of all the Riva models launched since 1994.

Regards the opening of the Studio's new office at the Ferretti Group's American headquarters in Miami, Florida, Sergio Beretta says: "The Miami office is the result of the strengthening of the relationship of great mutual esteem we enjoy with the Ferretti Group. Alberto Galassi, Ferretti Group CEO, demonstrated his complete faith in us in working alongside us on the re-launch of a historic brand. We'll be spending three months of the year at the Miami office. That means completely changing our day-to-day routine. It'll be a kind of annual shake-up. But it will also introduce plenty of new stimulus through our exposure to the international atmosphere in Miami and it will bring us into direct contact with American owners too."
